Australia and New Zealand Insurance Industry Awards finalists announced

The Australia and New Zealand Insurance Industry Awards Judging Panel is excited to announce the finalists for the 2010 awards.

The Awards, now in their seventh year, have been highly successful in celebrating excellence and achievement within the industry by showcasing the best performers in the Australian and New Zealand markets across the spectrum of insurance and risk.

Joan Fitzpatrick, ANZIIF CEO and Chair of the Judging Panel says the success of the Awards is due to the active involvement of the whole industry.

“The standard of the nominations this year has been very high and it is pleasing to see how much the industry has embraced the importance of this type of recognition, with a record number of entries received,” Fitzpatrick said.

“The judging task was intensive and the wealth of experience, knowledge and considered thought that our panel of judges brought to the process was exemplary. Having assessed each written submission across each criterion for the category and scored them, the judges then met for a day to discuss and evaluate again the top scoring candidates before lodging a silent vote with the auditors. The process is very robust. Announcing the finalists today and acknowledging their achievement is an important step in recognising the impressive field,” she said.

Only those submissions that were deemed to be of a suitable standard have been included in the list of finalists.

“Being judged a finalist in your category is an outstanding achievement in itself and something to be very proud of. The competition in each category was very strong and standards were high,” she said.

The winner in each category will be announced at the Insurance Industry Awards Gala at the Sydney Convention and Exhibition Centre’s Parkside Ballroom, Thursday 12 August. Television and radio personality, Adam Spencer, will emcee the Gala dinner and the Awards will be presented by the Institute and founding event partner Asia Insurance Review (AIR).
